ABSTRACT

Worship of K-pop celebrities is a topic of conversation today. When fans idolize celebrities, they will feel attached to everything related to their idols; one example is buying merchandise for their idols. When shopping activities become uncontrollable and excessive, this tends to show compulsive buying behavior. This study aims to determine the effect of celebrity worship on compulsive buying of merchandise for the late youth of the NCTzen community in Bandung City. Respondents in this study totaled 306 people. The research method used is quantitative research with a simple linear regression approach. The sampling technique uses non-probability sampling with the type of convenience sampling, using two measuring instruments, namely the celebrity worship scale (23 valid items; $\alpha = 0.917$) and the compulsive buying scale (29 valid items; $\alpha = 0.963$). The data analysis technique in this research uses simple regression analysis with the help of IBM SPSS 25 for Windows. Based on the results of data processing, the results showed that the hypothesis was accepted, where the Sig value of 0.000 means that celebrity worship has a significant influence on compulsive buying; besides that, the coefficient of determination value (R^2) was 0.424, which means that celebrity worship has an influence on compulsive buying with a large influence of 42.4%. So the results of the hypothesis test show that the higher the celebrity worship, the higher the compulsive buying.
